Reviewer's Comment For Publication.

The manuscript presents a descriptive and policy-oriented overview of the use of Artificial Intelligence in the Indian judicial system. The content primarily synthesizes existing discussions on judicial efficiency, access to justice, and constitutional safeguards associated with AI deployment in courts. The paper relies largely on secondary sources, policy documents, and publicly available reports to outline current developments and concerns.

The comparative component is narrative in nature, offering an overview of selected foreign jurisdictions without engaging in detailed institutional or doctrinal comparison. The constitutional discussion reiterates established legal principles relating to equality, due process, and access to justice, without advancing novel interpretations or analytical frameworks. The analysis does not incorporate empirical data, a defined methodology, or a systematic analytical structure.

REVIEWER'S REPORT

Overall, the manuscript functions as a general policy commentary or overview article rather than a rigorous academic research study. Its contribution remains primarily descriptive, with limited originality and analytical depth expected for publication in a peer-reviewed scholarly journal.
