Detailed Reviewer's Report

- The title clearly indicates the central thematic concerns—home, exile, belonging, and diasporic identity—suggesting a focused literary analysis.
- If the paper focuses on selected novels or stories, the title could be made more precise by mentioning them
- The theoretical framework is comprehensive but overly elaborated. The paper would benefit from a more concise presentation of theory, focusing primarily on concepts directly relevant to the analysis.
- The paper presents valuable insights; however, its length affects readability and argumentative sharpness. A more concise structure, removal of repetitive points, and tighter organization would considerably strengthen the manuscript.
- The conclusion introduces additional interpretative points that would be better placed within the analytical sections. The author may consider limiting the conclusion to summarizing key insights and implications of the study.
